Our scientists continue to work hard to create the Crankpot Industries website. Our LABs have also started preparing to open the doors of Crankpot Industries next Friday (13th) to you! You will be able to visit the Science Fair and see the scientists in action. There will also be lots of hands on experiments for you to have a go with! Don't forget if your scientist would like to enter the Science Fair they can create their own entry. We are extending the entry deadline to Monday as we have had very few entries!
